President's Notes

We're off and running – one great speaker and then another! Thank you Programs Committee for the careful planning and thoughtful scheduling.

Speakers' insights are sometimes surprising, don't you think? They connect visual artists and their work to ideas, poetry, food, song, history, tradition, and current events in ways we don't expect or always understand. They help us stretch our art appreciation muscles and strengthen our understanding of the "maker skills" that artists explore and refine so earnestly. Recently I came across this line attributed to Michaelangelo: "If people knew how hard I worked to get my mastery, it wouldn't seem so wonderful at all." As always, let me know what you think.

On another note, thank you for your on-going support of Art League. If you enjoyed the opening reception with Mary Ann Caws; if you were surprised and delighted by artist Renée Stout; if you're looking forward to the remaining 2015-16 lectures, pat yourself on the back! You long-time members who support Art League from afar made it possible too: thank you.

I hope you will join Art League friends and get to know new acquaintances at the Holiday Lunch in December. You'll find details on page 2. It's our 4th annual all Holiday Lunch and get together, and it's fun.

British and American Screenprints from 1967-1975

An Era of War, Protests, the Hippy Movement and Psychedelic Culture

"The Nasher's collection is surprisingly vast."
Marshall Price, Ph.D.

Now at the Nasher Museum at Duke University, Price is curator of Colour Correction, British and American Screenprints, 1967-1975 opening at the KIA on November 27.

Price explains that the exhibition is organized around several themes. Drawn mostly from the Nasher's collection, Colour Correction "focuses on a period of experimentation and productivity that many art historians call the 'golden age' of screenprinting."

10 am on Wednesday, December 9

He thought he would be an academic says Curator Marshall Price. "After finishing my MA I was lucky enough to land a job as curatorial assistant at the Santa Barbara Museum of Art and cut my teeth there. It didn't take long for me to realize that this was a much better fit than academia."
